The Jolly Organizers present the 2027 Learn and Ski Seminar

Ça va la tête, Geit's im Chopf?

Prof John Leddy

MD, FACSM. FACP. FAMSSM

Professor John J. Leddy is now recognised as one of the world's leading authorities on the management of concussions. His integrated approach, combining physiological assessment, exercise testing and personalised rehabilitation, has transformed clinical practice and continues to inform international best practice in sports medicine. His work illustrates how translational research can bring about lasting change in medical practice shifting from a passive approach involving prolonged rest towards active rehabilitation based on objective physiological data.

Dr Michael Vianin

DC, MSc DC

Dr Michael Vianin has extensive experience in concussion assessment and management, working with both professional athletes and individuals experiencing acute or persistent post-concussion symptoms. His clinical expertise spans the full spectrum of concussion presentations, with a particular focus on supporting recovery and facilitating a safe return to daily activities, work, and sport.

Prof John Leddy

John Leddy
Professor of Clinical Orthopaedics and Rehabilitation Sciences
State University of New York at Buffalo Jacobs School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences.
As a fellowship-trained primary care sports medicine physician, my goal is to provide the best evidence-based evaluation and treatment to patients with concussion and post-concussion syndrome, and to conduct clinical and physiological research on these conditions. I currently serve as medical director of the UB Concussion Management and Research Center. My primary research interest is the investigation of the basic mechanisms of the disturbance of whole body physiology in concussion and how to help restore the physiology to normal to help patients recover and safely return to activity and sport.

Dr Michael Vianin

is a chiropractor with a master`s degree in Rehabilitation Sciences and over 20 years of experience treating patients with musculoskeletal disorders and pain. He specializes in the management of complex clinical cases, including concussion management.
In addition to his clinical practice, Michael has extensive experience in teaching musculoskeletal rehabilitation and mentoring interns and residents, contributing to the development of future healthcare professionals.
Michael currently combines several professional roles, including caring for patients in his private practice, serving as a supervising clinician at the Lausanne University Hospital (CHUV), and working as a member of the medical staff for HC Fribourg-Gottéron.
He is also actively involved in healthcare governance, serving on several boards within the Swiss healthcare system and contributing to the development of the chiropractic profession at the international level.
